John H. Clark III is an optimistic realist.

An innovative business leader, community organizer, and retired naval officer, and Principal at THE PIE GROUP, John believes better development of leaders is what we (all) need. And to be better organizations, we need more good leaders, not more followers. To build better leaders, we must start with the individual (you, she, he, and me).

Described as “an innovative leader,” John demonstrates how and why leaders, organizations, and individuals can inspire each other. With a bold goal to inspire a worldwide community of optimistic realists who continuously create, live, and share the bold concept of The Ideal Life, John is leading a movement to inspire people to apply his trademarked mantra {Accept. Adapt. Achieve! ®} at work, at home, and in communities everywhere.

An innovative business manager and former commander in the United States Navy, John partners with organizations and leaders who want to make a lasting, positive impact on their organization’s culture and within the “real” world. Over the course of his life as a military leader, corporate mentor, and innovative content creator, John has discovered a wealth of insight into how we think, act and communicate within our work/life environments. As a career naval officer, mentor and educator, John has devoted his life to sharing insights to assist in our quests to become better at what we do – live @ work! His LinkedIn profile is <https://www.linkedin.com/in/johnclarkiii/>.

John has published three books on personal-life leadership: a leadership-development manual, “The Ideal: Your Guide to An Ideal Life”; a teen-focused guide, “Getting Out: Expert Advice for Today’s Teens”; and “God’s Heartbeat: A Powerful Premise for Leading a Christian Life.”

A staunch community and education advocate, John founded the non-profit organization TeenBuilding USA, where he currently serves as the volunteer Executive Director. The mission of TeenBuilding USA is to increase high-school graduation rates, promote higher education, and provide a positive venue where teens can develop life-long leadership skills that emphasize personal and academic accountability.
