

JOHN H. CLARK III

Leadership Development and Change-Management Consultant

John H. Clark III is an optimistic realist.

He believes better development of leaders is what we (all) need. To be better organizations, we need more good leaders (not more followers). And to build better leaders, John believes we must start with the most basic type of organization. And the most basic organization is the individual (you, she, he, and me).

Described as “an innovative leader,” John demonstrates how and why leaders, organizations, and individuals can inspire each other. With a bold goal to inspire a worldwide community of optimistic realists who continuously create, live, and share the bold concept of The Ideal Life, John is leading a movement to inspire people to apply his trademarked mantra {Accept. Adapt. Achieve! ®} at work, at home, and in communities everywhere.

An innovative business manager and former commander in the United States Navy, John partners with leaders and organizations who want to make an impact on their organization’s culture and within the “real” world. Over the course of his life as a military leader, corporate mentor, and innovative content creator, John has discovered a wealth of insight into how we think, act and communicate within our work/life environments. As a career naval officer, mentor and educator, John has devoted his life to sharing insights to assist in our quests to become better at what we do – live @ work! John has published three books on personal-life leadership: a leadership-development manual, “The Ideal: Your Guide to An Ideal Life”; a teen-focused guide, “Getting Out: Expert Advice for Today’s Teens”; and “God’s Heartbeat: A Powerful Premise for Leading a Christian Life.” Visit <https://www.amazon.com/John-H-Clark-III/e/B0065ASJHA/> for more information on his books.

A staunch community and education advocate, John founded TeenBuilding USA, a non-profit organization with a mission to increase high school graduation rates, promote higher education, and provide a positive venue where teens can develop life-long leadership skills emphasizing personal and academic accountability. As the author of several books and an engaging public speaker, John delivers a unique and refreshing point of view to life's seemingly overwhelming situations. His message resonates with ideals that enrich, uplift, and authorize people to set and achieve goals far beyond current mindsets.

John is an experienced multinational executive and avid traveler, visiting and living in many of the world's various countries, including Mexico, Australia, Japan, Germany, Hong Kong (China), Iraq, and The Philippine Islands, among others. He holds an MBA from The Naval Postgraduate School, and a BBA from The University of Memphis. His trademarked phrase is a winner:
